

What's New

APRIL 1 2017

Jobs

Link studio and agency jobs

You can now link studio jobs and agency jobs to each other, enabling you to utilize their intercompany billing and reporting features.

Agency specific Excel templates

You can now request agency specific Excel templates that you can use when exporting the Jobs dashboard work code detail view. This enables you to view only the columns you need. Contact your Mediaocean representative for more details.

Email notification enhancement

Users assigned to a job will receive an automated email when the job exceeds its estimate or when a job has been inactive for a number of days. This enables users to take the appropriate actions with that job.

Time

Add an estimate number when adding a timeline

You can now add an estimate number when adding or editing a timeline, enabling you to track time against that estimate.

Agency specific Excel templates

You can now request agency specific Excel templates that you can use when exporting a timesheet. This enables you to view only the columns you need. Contact your Mediaocean representative for more details.

Estimates

Hide zero line persistence

The Hide zero lines option will remain in effect after you select it and then save or exit the estimate, enabling you to not have to re-select that option the next time you view that estimate.

Orders

Search enhancement

When using search, the returned results now include jobs that are closed, open, locked or unlocked enabling you access to more information.